

CIP SYMPOSIUM 2025 – PROGRAMME

New literacies: The role of multilingualism and generative AI

Thursday, 6 November 2025, South Campus, Auditorium 9A.1.01 & 4A.0.69

All presentations will be held in English – participants are welcome to ask questions in Danish and English.

09:30 - 10:00	Registration and coffee
10:00 - 10:15	Welcome
10:15 - 10:45	Negotiating languages, power, and inequality: Critical digital literacies and generative AI in higher education Ron Darvin, Dept. of Language and Literacy Education, The University of British Columbia
10:45 - 11:15	The notion of literacy: Extended conceptualization or new constructs Slobodanka Dimova, CIP, University of Copenhagen
11:15 - 11:30	Short break
11:30 - 12:00	Panel discussion
12:00 - 13:00	Lunch
13:00 - 13:20	"My Own Writing Style": GAI and students' development of voice and writing identity Tine Wirenfeldt Jensen, Education Studies, Danish School of Education (DPU)
13:20 - 13:40	The role of AI in creating new literacies: Insights from linguistic ethnographies of student practices Sanne Larsen & Kasper Engholm Jelby, CIP, University of Copenhagen
13:40 - 14:00	"Can you explain this to me like I'm 5?": University students' practices and perceptions of AI Rafael Lomeu Gomes, CIP, University of Copenhagen
14:00 - 14:30	Coffee break
14:30 - 14:50	Developing multilingual assessment literacy: Why here, why now Joyce Kling, Centre for Languages and Literature, Lund University & Marella Therese Alejandro Tiongson CIP, University of Copenhagen
14:50 - 15:10	What do we mean when we talk about multilingual communicative competence Sanne Larsen & Beatrice Zuaro, CIP, University of Copenhagen
15:10 - 15:55	Panel discussion
15:55 - 16:00	Rounding off
16:00 - 17:00	Reception

This is a preliminary programme. Please consult CIP's website for the latest version.

