

Student perspectives on AI and translanguaging

CIP SYMPOSIUM 2024
Thursday, 21 November 2024

UNIVERSITY OF COPENHAGEN

U.

AI er eksploderet blandt studerende: KU i kovending med nye regler

70 procent af de KU-studerende svarer, at de bruger AI på deres studie generelt, mens 67 procent svarer, at de bruger AI til deres eksamener. Til gengæld svarer hele 81 procent af de KU-studerende, at de ikke får tilstrækkelig støtte i at lære at bruge nye AI-teknologier.

70 percent of the students at UCPH respond that they use AI in their studies in general, while 67 percent respond that they use AI for their exams. On the other hand, a full 81 percent of the UCPH students respond that they do not receive sufficient support in learning to use new AI technologies.

AI er eksploderet blandt studerende: KU i kovending med nye regler

Undersøgelsen fra Djøf bygger på besvarelser fra 2.227 studerende, hvoraf 641 er KU-studerende.

Student participants from University of Copenhagen:

- Yao Zhang, PhD student at Department of English, Germanic and Romance Studies
- Bartosz Andrej Baracz, bachelor student of Danish and History
- Isabel Høy Stevenson, bachelor student of Political Science

Facilitator: Katja Årosin Laursen, CIP, University of Copenhagen.

What do you use generative AI for in relation to your studies
- and what opportunities and challenges
do you see?

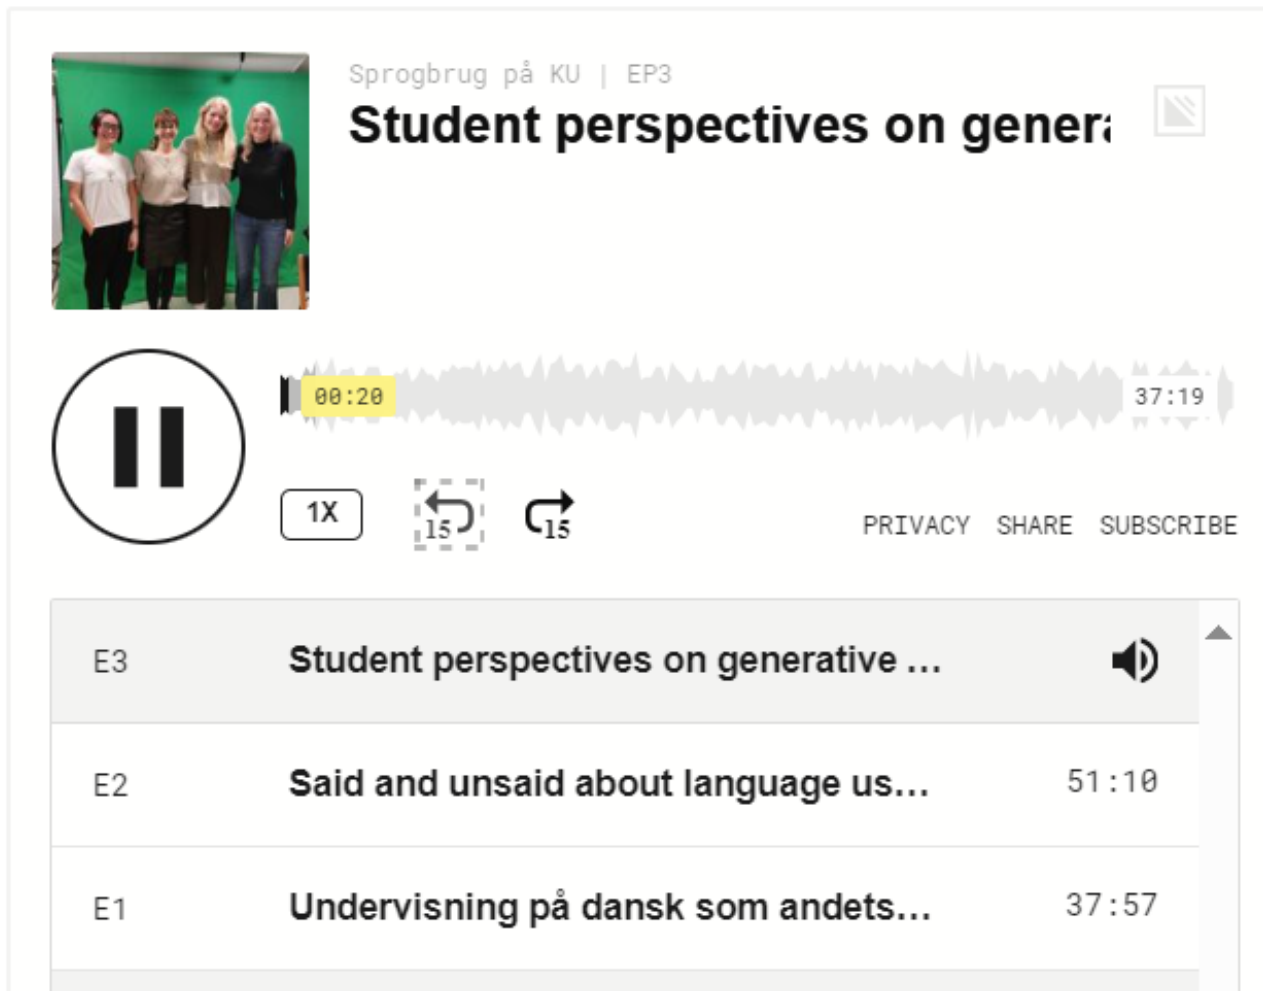

How do you balance the use of generative AI with your own creativity and critical thinking?

What do you think would be the ideal way of discussing and experimenting with generative AI
in a university context?

Questions

New podcast episode on student perspectives on GAI

Sprogbrug på KU | EP3

Student perspectives on generative AI

00:20 37:19

1X 15 15

PRIVACY SHARE SUBSCRIBE

E3	Student perspectives on generative ...
E2	Said and unsaid about language us...	51:10
E1	Undervisning på dansk som andets...	37:57

